SINCE my business is ADVERTISING, I am taking my own medicine by advertising myself.

I do not intend to boast about myself, but I do want to tell you what I think I can do.

There are many clever men in the field. I know I have the keenest competition to meet but that will not prevent me from getting my share of the business.

I feel so sure of being able to help some business men to do a greater business by adopting the style of advertising I believe in, that I will be willing to take a modest fee, as I am certain you would not like, in fairness to me, that I should render this service absolutely free of charge.

HEALTHY HAIR HINTS.

The idea that baldness is a sign of intellectuality is fast being exploded.

The hair is not pushed out of the head by the great knowledge inside.

In fact many learned men use Kaminia Oil to prevent their hair from coming out. They are succeeding with it, too.

So are many in all stages of intellectuality.

Available everywhere but it must be minia Oil.

STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The following information is published in order that vessels in the Bombay Harbour may by comparison with a standard instrument ascertain the errors of their barometers:—

The reading of the Standard Barometer in the Colaba Observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 80 deg. F. and to the level of the tide, at 8-45 a.m., Standard Time on the 7th September 1916 was 29.865 inches. For temperature corrections applicable to mercurial barometer of ships the reading of the ship's barometer has to be increased or decreased by .031 inch for every 5 degrees according as the temperature of the attached thermometer is respectively below or above 80 deg. F. In case of the aneroid no temperature correction is needed. But for comparison at 80 deg. F. all aneroid readings should be increased by .138 inch. For correcting the ship's barometer either mercurial or aneroid for the height of the barometer cistern above the tide level in the stream at 8-45 a.m. Standard Time, the ship's barometer reading should be increased by .010 inch for every 10 feet of the height to make it comparable with the observatory barometer reading given.

COLABA COTTON AUCTION.

PROCEEDS TO GO TO WAR SALE AND FETE FUND.

A novel and interesting feature of the Great War Sale and Fete, which is being organised, will be the "Colaba Cotton Auction," of which we are able to publish preliminary details.
It is reported that many influential cotton merchants are interesting themselves in this scheme, which contemplates the donation of cotton by local merchants in lots of 2, 4 or 8 bales, which will be collected in one central place and put up for public auction, the proceeds going to the Sale Fund. The promoters of the scheme are confident that a hearty response will be made to their appeal by all cotton merchants.
It is perhaps superfluous to remind cotton traders that they owe it to our soldiers and sailors that not only is their trade flourishing, but local mills are enjoying unprecedented activity and prosperity and the consideration of these facts and the memory of the heroism displayed by sailors and soldiers, Indian and British alike, and the sacrifices that they have made to preserve our Empire intact will surely appeal very strongly to the cotton community the mill agents and their shareholders.
Colaba merchants are known for their generosity as the promoters of the famine funds and cattle relief funds will testify and there is little doubt that in this case they will respond liberally to the appeal made. Mill-owners should avail themselves of the chance of "combining business with pleasure" by bidding right royally or the day of the auction. The cotton, we understand, will be properly classified and sold according to quality and we believe we are giving away no secrets in saying that the promoters hope that very high personages will grace Colaba on the day of the auction. A considerable amount of cotton has already been promised by merchants and mill-owners and a detailed list of the donors will be published in due course.

HIGH COURT.

ORIGINAL SIDE.

ALLEGED BREACH OF CONTRACT.

CLAIM FOR DAMAGES DISALLOWED.

(Before Mr. Justice Macleod.)

BUNJOR FRAMROZ R. JOSHI, Plaintiff v.
MAHOMED DADA AND CO., Defendants.

This was a suit to recover from the defendants a sum of Rs. 9,000 as damages for the breach of a contract alleged to have been entered into between the plaintiff and the defendants.
Mr. W. H. Moos and Mr. T. J. Strangman appeared for the plaintiff.
Mr. K. N. Bendarji and Mr. B. J. Desai appeared for the defendants.
The plaintiff carries on as a firm the business of an Indian merchant and exporter. The defendants are merchants carrying on business in partnership in Bombay. The plaintiff alleged that at an interview that took place on the 9th or 10th August between the plaintiff, one Vahi Dada, a partner in the defendants' firm, one Mahomedbhoy, a partner in the firm of Loosmanji Ebramjmji who were the defendants agents, and one J. B. Patell, a freight broker, it was agreed as follows:—"That the plaintiff should ship 10,000 baskets of onions of about 35 lbs. each by the s. s. Maras which had been chartered by the defendants and which was expected to sail from Bombay about the 10th September. The onions were to be shipped from Bombay to Singapore, or, at the plaintiff's option, Penang or Colombo for a freight of Rs. 1,500 and the defendants were not to ship any other onions by the same ship either on their own account or on account of any other person."
The plaintiff's story was that after this interview, the agreement arrived at between the parties was, with some variations, agreed to by both the sides, put on record in a letter addressed by the plaintiff to the defendants and dated the 15th August. Thereafter correspondence ensued between the plaintiff and the defendants in the course of which the defendants denied that there was any contract. The plaintiff thereupon in the present suit seeking a declaration that there was a completed contract as alleged by him, and praying for an injunction restraining the defendants from carrying any onions on the s. s. Maras on the projected voyage and for an award of Rs. 4,500 as damages, being the difference between the cost price of 16,000 bags of onions and the price realized by the sale of these bags in Bombay.
The defence was that there were negotiations between the plaintiff and the defendants for the carriage of onions from Bombay to Singapore but that the negotiations did not result in an agreement and they were broken off on the 15th August, 1915.
On the 9th September, 1915, the plaintiff moved the Court and obtained an interim injunction restraining the defendants from carrying any onions (other than those shipped by the plaintiff) by the s. s. Maras on the projected voyage. The defendants pleaded that the action of the plaintiff in obtaining the injunction, and his subsequent conduct in refusing to ship his own onions on board the s. s. Maras, without prejudice to the rights of parties, were malicious and dishonest. The defendant counter-claimed the sum lost by him.

JUDGMENT.

His Lordship after hearing evidence came to the conclusion that there was no concluded contract arrived at between the parties at the interview of the 10th August as alleged by the plaintiff nor was there any binding agreement between the parties thereafter.
His Lordship then dealt with the question of injunction wrongfully obtained by the plaintiff. His Lordship upon that point observed that the plaintiff having deliberately applied for an injunction thereby incurred a risk of having to pay for the consequences. Under the circumstances of the case his Lordship held that the injunction ought never to have been granted.
The plaintiff's suit was accordingly dismissed with costs, and the counter-claim referred to the Commissioner to ascertain the damages sustained by the defendant. Costs of the counter-claim were reserved.
Solicitors for the plaintiff:—Payne and Co.
Solicitors for the defendants:—Wadia, Gandhy and Co.

It was alleged that on the 24th August the accused was driving towards Church Gate Street from Queen's Road and while near the B. B. & C. I. Railway Offices, he suddenly took a sharp curve and brushed past a trap belonging to Col. Lloyd Jones. The accused pleaded guilty. As this was his first offence, he was fined Rs. 50.

THE BOMBAY CHRONICLE.

THE ASPIRATIONS OF RUSSIA.

In the current number of the "Nowy Economist" M. Migulin, the famous Russian Professor of Economics, discusses the future of the Tsar's Empire and especially in its relation to Great Britain. M. Migulin gives us the Russian standpoint, which it is interesting to study in its connection with our own policy in the Central East and our obligations there. Like all the statesmen of his country, the distinguished economist first turns to the direct need of Muscovy, namely, a warm water port, and quite naturally raises the question of the Dardanelles. One thing is certain, and that is that Great Britain will never lay down her arms, and the same may be said of the other Allies, until the great injustice of the Treaty of Berlin is amended and Russia given at the very least freedom of waterway from her own inland ocean to the middle sea. "Russia," says M. Migulin "must secure corresponding material compensations for the losses she has incurred. But where can Russia obtain corresponding concession? Above all, not on the Western frontier. Russia must have an outlet to free Southern waters. She must secure the freedom of the Dardanelles and an access to the Mediterranean not only by sea but by land. She must come to an arrangement with Great Britain to have an outlet on the Persian Gulf." This is a somewhat new standpoint.

That Russia has always coveted Constantinople, with its great Christian traditions, is only natural. The protector of the Eastern Church, ruled by a monarch who is the Pope of Orthodoxy, at least by sentiment if not by an accepted canon, thwarted more than once by Diplomacy when she had reached the very gates of Stamboul, Russia may well desire the possession of the Straits. That she will at all events get the freedom of them is beyond question. But when we come to the claim advanced by M. Migulin, for a roadway as well as a waterway to the Mediterranean, we are compelled to study the question in friendly spirit, as it will affect our own particular interests. Firstly, the cession of Poland to Russia may be termed a fait accompli. That cession may in all possibility include the old Polish port of Danzig, whose sea-borne trade exceeds 16 millions sterling per annum. By Poland is meant of course the reconstructed Poland of the Poniatowski's—Posen, Galicia and the Royaume. By this acquisition alone the Tsar will obtain 41,482 square miles, which will bring his frontier almost to the walls of Budapest. Armenia has been completely conquered and there can be no talk of "cession" in this case, for the Muscovite will keep what he has conquered as much by the will of the Armenians as his own. That will further raise the acquired territorial gains to 74,785 square miles and will bring the Russian frontier well within reach of Aleppo, with its sea-port of Alexandretta. There is no reason why the Russians should not take the town in their irresistable jaunt through Asiatic Turkey, and if they do take it, it will solve a good many difficulties. For Russia will then have her warm water port which will not be separated from the rest of the Empire but form a contingent part of the great stretch of territory that owns the sway of the Romanoffs. The railway head at Tiflis can be transferred to the Mediterranean by way of Erzeroum, Erzinjan, Diarbekr, Urfa, Birejik, Aleppo-Alexandretta. An ironway from the Southern sea to the Northern, an all Russian route from the extreme west of Europe to the extreme west of Asia. The difficulty presented by this solution is Anatolia and the vilayets of Angora, Brusa, Siwas, Konia, Adana and Smyrna. The cession or conquest of a strip of the Asia Minor coast including the port of Alexandretta would cut Turkey in two and separate her from her Arab possessions and Syria. Unless it is decided to confine Turkish rule for the future to a territory bounded on the north-west by a neutralised Constantinople, on the north by the Black Sea, on the East by a frontier line passing near Diarbekr, Erzeroum and Trebizond and on the south by the Gulf of Iskandurun. That would leave Syria to the French who alone have any claim to it and who are the most desired nation so far as the natives of the country are concerned and who have done more than any other people to develop it. This moreover would satisfy those principles of nationality which the Prime Minister said at the Guildhall would be the guiding star of the Allies on the day of reckoning. Baghdad, Mesopotamia and the Arab provinces of the Sultan would accordingly be revived as Arab states under the protection of Great Britain.

If Turkey must go, and it seems to be impossible to save her thanks to her outrageous folly, this is surely the only way in which the Sick Man can be disposed of without making any of the dispossessed more sick than himself. But Professor Migulin's idea of corresponding concessions for Russia's losses in the war are somewhat different. "Russia must have an outlet on the Persian Gulf. There must be no more talk of an area of conflict between the two countries. Asia Minor, Mesopotamia, Northern Persia, and the neutral zone of Persia must be ceded to Russia; when Russia occupies the Dardanelles, Alexandretta and the Persian Gulf she will protect for England the way to India instead of threatening it." This last sentence or rather the argument of it is somewhat obscure, as the possession of the Persian Gulf by a great military and naval Power reduces Egypt from her position of the Warden of India to one of complete strategic insignificance. The dream of M. Migulin is that of the Kaiser, it is world-dominion in a Russian form. It will mean that an Anglo-Russian land frontier will thus be created in Syria, in Persia, Irak and to the very gates of India and will necessitate the reconstruction of our military organisation on such lines as will hardly tally with financial conditions after the war. Russia's services to the Allies have undoubtedly been immense and we are determined that our friend shall receive the compensation she deserves. But the cession that is required by M. Migulin seems to pay no heed to the equal or greater claims of Great Britain and France. France is primarily a Mediterranean power, with great Mediterranean traditions. The evangel of her culture has been carried to the wooded slope of the Lebanon, and her flag is sacred to the Syrian who has always been her protege. Why should the whole of an immense Empire be handed over to Russia alone? Again, Russia has no interests on the Gulf, but Britain has. She is moreover under certain obligations to Arab chieftains in that neighbourhood, who have rendered yeoman services to us during the present war, and who ask nothing better than the expansion of the British power at the portals of India. Britain's views on the subject of the settlement after the war was clearly stated by the Premier at the Guildhall to be based on the claims of small nationalities and not on any land-greed. The war has turned out to be different to what we thought it would be and one thing is certain and that is that Russia will get her Dardanelles waterway and the Indian Empire extend, in spite of what anyone may say, to the waters of the Shatt-el-Arab. M. Migulin happily belongs to that school of Russian thought which was inspired formerly by Teutonic, and whose exponents are nowadays superseded by saner, statesmen. His views on the claims of our noble northern Allies are not likely to be endorsed by them.

A FUTILE BLUE-BOOK.

It is an unfortunate fact that the only advantage which the majority of blue-books issued by various Government departments, possess is that from the standpoint of their compilers, who take advantage of the opportunity of saying what is convenient to them and of omitting what is not. It is thus that the blue-books have played a not inconsiderable part in creating that tradition of self-complacency in official circles whose result has been the fostering of a notion among them that the country is being governed under the best of all possible systems and by the best of all possible administrators. The real aim of blue-books, that they should reveal the defects as well as the merits of the administration, and, above all, the true conditions, wishes and needs of the people, has been long lost sight of. Thus it is that the majority of blue-books constitute a serious obstacle to any substantial progress or reform in the material and political and intellectual life of the country.

But it is when we consider the form in which information about India is given to the British Parliament, and, through it, to the British public that the pernicious influence of blue-books about India is most prominently revealed. The annual survey of Indian administration, which appears as a blue-book under the curious title "Statement Exhibiting the Moral and Material Progress and Condition of India" is a standing joke perpetrated on the British public by the permanent officials at Whitehall. It is one of the ironies of modern times that, in spite of a century of British rule in India, the principles which the statesmanship of Britain has guarded for centuries and is fighting for to-day are embodied to such a very small extent in the administration of the affairs of over three hundred million people. If the root-causes of this are analysed, it will be found that, apart from the opposition which any proposal for the political advance of the country has invariably received from the bureaucracy, they consist in the indifference on the part of the British public, even of the more intelligent portion of it. The indifference fortunately is not altogether conscious, but chiefly the result of ignorance as to the true state of things in India. It is the source of the notion that Indian affairs are terribly dreary and obscure It is thus that the Indian Debate in the Commons,—a chance which arises only once a year,—deteriorates into a formal conversation between half a dozen members. And yet there is no wonder that all this has been so. As the "New Statesman" points out in a recent article, what little is done from time to time by way of reminding the British public that India exists and is their concern is so miserably done by the authorities that the neglect and indifference of Parliament and the electorate is almost excusable. The article in the "New Statesman" is devoted to the examination of the mystery that, in spite of the almost inexhaustible wealth of material for the student of society and affairs presented by the administration of this country, alike in itst relation to the mass of humanity whose welfare is involved and to the extraordinary varied interests covered by its activities, the annual survey of this administration is, "without exception among blue-books of any importance, the dullest and most meagre thing in any part of the Empire."

We have on previous occasions dealt with the glaring defects of this jejune report, and its latest edition,—as usual more than a year late,—being reduced in size on account of the war is the more marred by these defects. "There is little or nothing in it" as the "Manchester Guardian" points out, "exhibiting the moral condition of the country, except through the depressing medium of criminal statistics. There is not a line about literature or the press, religion, philosophy, social movements, or philanthropy, or any other of the influences which, in every country of the world save British India, would be included as a matter of course in a report of its "moral and material progress and condition." The "New Statesman" puts the same thing even more strongly when it says "the reader may well wonder at the state of mind of the compilers who are understood to be surveying the moral condition of the Indian people, when he remarks that the statement does not contain a line about religious movements or philosophical thought, philanthrophy, social service literature or the Press."

Official and Personal.

The validity of the election of the Hon. Mr. Mahomed Ali Jinnah by the Mahomedan community in the Presidency of Bombay to the Legislative Council of the Governor-General having been called in question by Mulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad the Governor in Council has appointed Mr. P. E. Percival, Judge and Sessions Judge of Poona, to hold an enquiry into the truth of the allegation.

Her Excellency Lady Willingdon in honour of her return from England, gave a Cinema Treat to the Sowars, their wives and children in the Body Guard Lines at Aundh on Tuesday last and on Wednesday night gave a similar treat to all the servants, their wives and families at Government House, Ganeshkhind.

Lord and Lady Willingdon visited the Convalescent Barracks, Poona, on Wednesday morning.

Notes of the Day.

India and the Phillippines.

In a recent issue the "New Statesman" described the progress of the Phillippines towards self-government. The writer, noting that under Governor Harrison, the affairs of the Archipelago appeared to be administered ably and sympathetically, showed the importance of the recent debates in the Congress at Washington. Although the original proposal for the grant of full independence at the end of four years had been negatived, the House of Representatives had passed a Bill providing for a largely extended scheme of self-government with which was coupled a definite pledge of complete autonomy as the ultimate aim of the United States. Sir William Wedderburn in a letter published in the "New Statesman" in mail week, comments upon the direct bearing of American policy in the Phillipines upon the problem of India. "Can anyone" he asks,

"show valid cause why this good example should not be followed by the British Government with regard to India?" Are the Fillipinos in any respect superior to the people of India? Or is it that the British people are inferior to the Americans in love of principle and moral courage? The problem in India is much simpler, for India does not ask for a termination of the British connexion; but I can say with certainty that among our best friends in India there exists grave disquiet, produced by the silence of the Government regarding their future policy, accompanied by irritating retrogressive legislation in Parliament and fresh activity of police repression in India. What is wanted from Parliament is not a Consolidation Bill, trenching on the rights of the subject, but an authoritative declaration that self-government within the Empire is the ultimate goal of British policy. In the meantime the Government may do a good deal to mitigate the strain produced by two years of war by administrative measures showing practical sympathy with Indian aspirations.

South Africa Again.

The troubles of the Indian community in South Africa are apparently to have no end. The latest issue of "Indian Opinion" gives an account of an extraordinary case before the Pretoria Immigration Board. It would appear that at a certain Indian sometime ago introduced into the Transvaal a woman as his wife to whom he was not legally married. He subsequently proceeded with her to Natal,—where a legal marriage was registered between them,—and later brought her again into the Transvaal.

"She was detained at the Border as a prohibited immigrant. Owing to a technicality, of which the Principal Immigration Officer availed himself, notice of appeal was not filed within the statutory period, and, whilst strongly sympathising, the Board had no option but to refuse to hear the appeal. On a suggestion thrown out by the Chairman of the Board, the woman again left the Transvaal and returned, but we are informed that not only was she not allowed by the Immigration Officer at the Border to remain, but she was actually deported without being given an opportunity to appeal."

An Arbitrary Action.

No action could be more arbitrary or high-handed and, as "Indian Opinion" suggests, it may be supposed that the Border Officer was acting upon instructions. According to the same journal the Principal Immigration Officer did not dispute the legality of the marriage, but held that the husband was a person of bad character and that it was undesirable to admit the wife, against whom, however, there was no suggestion of bad character. The manner in which the Immigration Officer has extended the policy of the Immigration Law is anything but legal. For it is quite clear that, so long as the husband is the lawful resident of the Transvaal and the marriage can be proved, the wife is also entitled to enter the Transvaal. Beyond this the Officer is not entitled to allow any consideration to influence him. "Indian Opinion," however, understands that instructions have now been issued that the technicality be waived and that the woman be allowed to re-enter the Transvaal, on a temporary permit in order to prosecute her appeal before the Board.

Now provided that she can prove the marriage,—a fact which the Principal Immigration Officer did not dispute,— her appeal is bound to be upheld. In any case we trust that the Transvaal authorities will see that this is the last of this Officer's maladministration of the Immigration law.

German Military Critic on the Eastern Front.

Colonel Gaedke, the famous military critic who now writes in the Socialist "Vorwaerts" is much the coolest and soberest writer on the war in the German Press. His article on the war situation in mail week contained a number of generalisations that are worth noting. Of these, the following about the Eastern front contains a warning hint to his countrymen:—

"I consider it wrong to say, as one often hears, that the decision of the war lies in the West. The decision will take place where a victory is won so comprehensive that the defeated side is put out of action for an indefinite period or finally acknowledges his defeat. Were the Central Powers able to attain this at any point, the game would be up for the enemy; for neither of their separated halves can resist our united strength. The same, of course, holds for the other side. A decisive victory by Brussiloff would speedily and irrevocably depress the balance against us."

This is the first serious hint of the danger to the East front that has appeared in a German newspaper. Most of the military critics prefer to leave that front alone or to refer only to its northern section. And in view of the present situation created by Roumania's entry in the war, the hint gains an added interest.

War and Litigation.

There is hardly any official document issued nowadays that does not attribute all abnormal developments to war which appears, for the time, to have become the causer of all causes. It is, therefore, not surprising to find from the latest "Civil Statements" of the Allahabad High Court that the war was responsible for a remarkable increase in the number of civil suits. The number instituted rose from 122,595 to 145,597. Out of this heavy increase of 23,000 suits small cause courts were responsible for an increase of nearly 18,000. The increase was almost entirely in suits for money or moveable property, and was practically confined to suits of Rs. 500 and under in value, there being a rise of 8,000 in suits worth Rs. 50 and under, and a rise of over 9,000 in suits whose value did not exceed Rs. 100. The rise in institutions, says the Statement is, therefore clearly due to the European war, unsettled financial conditions leading to a rush to realise small outstanding debts, without waiting, in the usual manner, for large accumulations of interest.

The increase in institutions was shared, without exception, by all the judgeships within the jurisdiction of the High Court. The number of contested cases disposed of reached the very high figure of 41,811, which is over 4,000 above the average of the preceding quinquennium. A rise of 2,648 in the pending file was a natural consequence of the very heavy institutions, and the Hon. Judges consider it a matter for congratulation that the rise was not greater.

ADMINISTRATION OF DEFENCE ACT.

INDIAN ASSOCIATION'S REPRESENTATIONS.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CALCUTTA, Sept. 7.

The Indian Association have submitted a representation to the Governor-in-Council with regard to the administration of the Defence of India Act. The Association appealed to the Government to follow the English procedure and appoint an advisory board before whom all papers including explanations of persons proposed to be interned should be laid and their cases finally disposed of by them. The representation says that the appointment of an advisory board to deal with cases of internment is the irreducible minimum consistent with that regard for rights of personal liberty which is the corner stone of the British system of administration in all parts of the world. The Association while thankful noting that in every case an explanation is taken from the person whom it is proposed to intern, and that papers are placed before an judicial expert whose opinion is taken before internment, urge that the charges, or at any rate the material and substantial part of them, should be communicated to the political suspect in writing and his explanation also in writing taken thereon. The Association further express hope that if such a board be appointed there may be at least one or two Indian members on it. With regard to treatment of interned persons who are in a sense state prisoners they should receive comforts and conveniences to which they have been accustomed and they should be relieved of all anxiety for maintenance of their families.

KARACHI CLOTH MERCHANTS AT LAW.

ALLEGED ALTERATION IN LABEL.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

KARACHI, Sept. 7.

A case which is exciting considerable interest among the mercantile community of Karachi is being heard before Mr. W. N. Richardson, City Magistrate of Karachi. Messrs. E. A. Miller partner and manager, J. M. Dunbar manager and Jethanand Hiranand salesman, of the firm of Messrs. Macdonald and Co. Karachi, were called upon at the instance of Mr. Dirk Van Wyngaarden, Karachi manager of the Holland-Bombay Trading Co., to show cause why process should not be issued against them for making alterations to labels upon pugree cloth imported by the complainant's firm with the apparent desire to sell that cloth as their own merchandise. The case stands adjourned till the 26th instant.

ALLEGED MURDER OF HEADMASTER.

APPEAL IN MALDA CASE.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CALCUTTA, Sept. 7.

At the High Court to-day before Justice Chaudhuri and Newbould an application was made for admission of appeal on behalf of Mohendra Nath Dass, a student, who was convicted by the Sessions Judge of Malda for abetment of murder and sentenced to transportation for life. The victim in this case was the headmaster of the local government school who was the object of hatred to the anarchist party. It was alleged that the accused being a member of the anarchist party, aided in committing the murder. Their Lordships admitted the appeal.

THE SOMME OFFENSIVE

ENTERS ITS SECOND GREAT PHASE.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, Sept. 7.

The "Pioneer's" correspondent cables:—London, September, 5th:—The commandant of a French army, in an article communicated to the "Exchange" correspondent at Paris, says that the taking of Combles must soon come and will put the Allies in possession of the whole plateau dominating the Bapaume area. The enemy's resistance is being put to a hard test. Driven back ceaselessly, unable to fortify himself as in the past, he may some day be unable to discover the ground on which to make even a temporary stand. Only Marrieres Wood now separates the French from the Peronne-Bapaume road. The offensive on the Somme has thus entered its second great phase. Will it extend to the north or to the south? That is the secret of the Headquarters staff.

ENEMY'S VAIN ATTEMPTS AT RESISTANCE,

The "Liberte's" correspondent at the front points out that the latest offensive on the Somme is no surprise to the German command, which during the delay due to bad weather brought up reinforcements and even endeavoured to snatch the initative by a vigorous attack. This failed completely and the plan of the Allied staffs was methodically carried out. The British took Guillemont after a desperate battle with the Brandenburgers of Douaumont fame, who defended the ground foot by foot with a courage that their adversaries recognise. In a small fort on the road to Combles they resisted until all munitions were exhausted. When the British took the Redoubt, there remained only ten men unwounded amid the bodies of their fallen comrades. The British success is most important. They are now little more than a mile from the first house at Combles.

BENGALI REGIMENT.

HEARTY SEND OFF TO RECRUITS.

LORD CARMICHAEL ON THE EXPERIMENT.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CALCUTTA, Sept. 7.

The spacious Town Hall of Calcutta was crowded yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the farewell given to the Bengali recruits on the eve of their departure to the North-Western Frontier for training. The recruits, about one hundred, came in procession with the band of the 127th Baluchis. His Excellency the Governor presided. The Maharaja of Burdwan as president of the recruiting committee addressed a few words to the recruits.

Dr. S. K. Mallick said the recruiting had gone on at a phenominal rate and now only 70 men were required to complete the total required. As the moffusil had not yet been tapped, there would be no difficulty in securing more men than the Government is at present willing to enlist. The men were going to Nowshera to join the 46th Punjabis. Four Brahman cooks and four Hindu servants would accompany the first batch.

His Excellency the Governor, in congratulating the recruits, said he especially congratulated them as they were the first body of Bengalis to whom the privilege had been given of going to serve as soldiers. To many it seemed unusual that the Government should be willing to make an experiment and take and train men as soldiers on the distinct promise that when trained they would be sent on active service. Considerable public interest had been aroused by the sanction for the formation of the double company and that was why he congratulated them. Many people believed that the Bengalis ought to be given a chance of showing that they could do well in warfare as they could do well in peace. He believed they would rise to their opportunity.

With a vote of thanks to the Governor the meeting terminated.

"AUTONOMY FOR INDIA."

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CALCUTTA, Sept. 7.

Babu Sasankajiban Roy, Vakil, High Court, read yesterday evening a paper on "Outline of Autonomy for India" in the Indian Association Hall, Mr. Surendranath Bannerjea presiding. The lecturer began by showing the urgent necessity for self-Government as the only solution of the social, economical and administrative problems of the day. He said that inspite of the good intentions of the rulers no good could come to the people unless the system of administration which was at fault was changed. A Federal Parliament should be established at Delhi to administer the affairs of the country. No less than three-fourths of the members should be elected by the people. The Executive Council should be elected by the Federal Parliament and should be responsible to that body. A system of popular Government with full scope for the sons of India to administer her own affairs and in which the will of the bureaucracy should be subordinate to the will of the people, should be given to India by British statesmen.

Mr. Surendranath Bannerjea said Self-Government or Home Rule as Mrs. Besant put it, was sure to come after the war. No reform worth the name, either social, educational or domestic could be made without political freedom. He was of the opinion that not three-fourths, but the whole of the Federal Parliament should consist of members elected by the people. He was sure Government would confer provincial autonomy after the war.

QUADRANGULAR CRICKET.

HINDUS V. PRESIDENCY.

HINDUS' FIRST VENTURE CLOSES FOR 155.

DEODHER REMAINS UNBEATEN.

PRESIDENCY BATTING COLLAPSE.

FIRST INNINGS.

Hindus	.....	155
Presidency	..... (for 9 wtks.)	89

About ten thousand spectators witnessed the start made at 11-35 a.m. yesterday in the second match of the Quadrongular cricket contest, between the Presidency and the Hindus. The latter, who had first knock at the wicket, put up a total of 155, to which the Presidency replied with one of 89 for nine wickets, when stumps were drawn for the day.

Yesterday's game leaves the Hindus well ahead of their opponents but the latter have still one wicket in hand and if the last pair succeeds in adding a couple of tens the margin in favour of the Hindus would be very much reduced.

DRAMATIC SURPRISES.

The game was full of dramatic surprises yesterday. The wicket was somewhat wet at the start and the bowlers could get a considerable amount of work on the ball but the wicket was easy throughout the day and the failure of the batsmen on either side was really surprising. It was all a one man's show on both sides, particularly so on the Presidency. For when Deodher's contribution to the Hindu and that of Tarrant to the Presidency total are taken out the figures on both sides appear poor indeed. The Hindu score of 79 at the fall of the seventh wicket was not at all encouraging to their supporters and but for the bit of vigorous wagging of the tail the score would not have reached the respectable figures which it eventually did. But this by no means excuses the failure of the early Hindu batsmen all of whom with the single exception of Deodher failed to play up to their reputation.

But if the Hindu batsmen with the notable exception of Deodher made a poor show, the Presidency innings was little more than a fiasco. Here was a strong batting combination which included nearly half a dozen county players and yet all that they could do was to put up a miserable total of 89 runs for the loss of no less than nine wickets It is perhaps necessary to repeat that the wicket was an easy one throughout and though the bowlers could get a good deal of work on the ball, they were at no stage of the game unplayable The wicket in fact played infinitely better than during the match between the Parsis and the Mahomedans, and the batsmen's failure yesterday becomes altogether inexplicable

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

The Presidency innings presented a repetition of the spectacle of old when Greig's cheap dismissal almost invariably heralded a Presidency collapse. History repeated itself in unmistakable manner yesterday and after the return of the great Presidency skipper one batsman after another followed him to the pavilion in monotonous succession. It was little more than a procession to and from the wicket and though it would perhaps be an exaggeration to say that all of them suffered from nerves or rather a lack of them, there is little doubt that most of them did, and none could muster up the courage to have a bang as a last resort. The result was that an admittedly strong batting side was nearly all disposed of for a paltry total of 89. The figures at the fall of the early wickets,—1 for 5, 2 for 5, 3 for 5, 4 for 5 and 5 for 12,—speak more eloquently than anything else. The Presidency undoubtedly met with some pieces of ill-luck. Greig was stumped when the score was only at 5 and McCormack was caught off a fast rising ball. But the failure of the majority of the remaining Presidency batsmen was altogether inexcusable. Cooper never seemed to be at ease with the Hindu attack and Goldie ing to the boundary every ball that is sent to the boundary every ball that is sent down to him.

TARRANT'S VALUABLE CONTRIBUTION.

Tarrant undoubtedly rendered yeoman's service to his side. His contribution was of great value to the Presidency but he would have proved of still greater service to his side if he had not adopted ultra-cautious tactics. Perhaps he was wise in refusing to take any risks but it was at the same time most exasperating to see this great Middlesex professional gently patting deliveries which a lesser batsman could have despatched to the boundary. But for all this it must be unhesitatingly conceded that he played a splendid uphill game and but for his remarkable stand the Presidency total would have been poorer still.

DEODHER'S MASTERLY DISPLAY.

One canont sufficientiy admire the masterly batting display given by Deodher on the Hindu side. With the partial eclipse of Vithal he is now by far the greatest batsman among the Hindus and yesterday he proved to his side what Tarrant subsequently did to the Presidency. Playing with an easy grace equalled by few of his compatriots he met all the Presidency attack with fine confidence and perhaps the only fault that could be found with his display was that he like Tarrant failed to see at the later stages of the innings that merely keeping up one end without subsequently adding to the total whilst wickets were falling in pretty quick succession at the other end was of little help to his side. He subsequently saw his mistake when the ninth wicket fell, and he started hitting out, sending Tarrant thrice in succession to the boundary but he could have attained better results if he had started doing it a bit earlier.

The bowling honours of the day were carried off on the Presidency side by Tarrant and Simms and on the Hindu by Joshi. They all bowled with splendid precision, breaking in a lot pretty frequently.

DETAILS OF PLAY.

HINDU INNINGS.

Kantak and Bhutaram of Patiala opened the Hindu innings, Tarrant and Simms delivering the Presidency attack. Kantak opened the Hindu account with a two off Tarrant. The batsmen played a cautions game and took the total to 10 when Bhutaram made the first boundary stroke of the day, putting Simms to the leg boundary. Six runs later however the Patiala man was caught in the slips by Tarrant off Simms (16-1-10.)

Dalvi joined Kantak and 20 went up which was quickly followed by 30 with a fine pull to the leg boundary by Dalvi off Tarrant. Both batsmen now opened their shoulders, making some fine strokes and a single by Dalvi brought up 40. Soon after, Simms got past Dalvi's defence with a well-pitched delivery (40-2-11.)

Deodhar of Poona who was now associated with Kantak opened his account by nicely putting Simms to the leg for 4 and a little later he sent up the half century amid cheering by splendidly hitting the same bowler to the Waudby Road boundary.

Six runs later Tarrant found Kantak's wickets with a splendid delivery which broke in tremendously from leg. The outgoing batsman had played steady cricket for his 56 (56-3-16.)

Shivram who partnered the Poona man soon returned to the pavilion, being l-b w to Simms before he had scored a single (59-4-0.)

Vithal now joined Deodhar but the great batsman too had a short career at the wicket as he was soon out l-b-w to Tarrant (60-5-1.)

The Hindus had thus lost two of their finest bats for an addition of only 4 to the total and matters became still worse when Diveker their skipper who next came in was soon after finely held in the slips by Simms off Tarrant (60-6-0.)

Swami, the next man in, revived Hindu hopes of a big score by magnificently hitting Simms to the eastern boundary and 70 was telegraphed soon after. In the next over he treated Tarrant in the same fashion, making a fine boundary stroke, but a little later in attempting to again slash at the Middlesex professional he was stumped by Kirkwood (79-7-14.)

Naidu next joined Deodhar who brought up 80 on the board with a single off Simms. Naidu then sent a full toss from Tarrant over the Esplanade Road boundary and in the bowler's next over, driving him to the northern boundary he signalled 90.

Deodhar now sent Tarrant to the western boundary and a little later he hoisted the century, which came as the result of two hours' play from the start. The Hindus had made 101 runs for 7 wickets, when an adjournment was made for lunch.

On resuming after lunch, Naidu had a life, Bowman at cover-point missing him off Tarrant. Deodher then sent one of the same bowler's deliveries to the boundary, Naidu responding with a pull to the leg boundary off Simms and bringing up 110. Naidu again nicely put Simms to the leg boundary, but in Tarrant's next over he was finely held in the slips by Goldie (117-8-27). Naidu had contributed an useful innings of 27 and with Deodher's assistance added 38 to the total. Joshi the next man in, soon succumbed to Simms (122-9-2). Chanda Rana, the last man in, played keeps and he was loudly cheered by the Hindu supporters for every ball that he blocked so that if he just managed to keep up one end Deodher might have the chance of doing something at the other. But Rana did more than that; he started doing something on his own account, cutting Tarrant to the boundary and sending up 130. One hundred and forty took some time in coming but Deodher enlivened matters considerably by driving Tarrant thrice in succession to the boundary and signalling 150 amid loud cheering, his own contribution being 50 at this stage. Deodher had made the pace a bit too hot to suit the Presidency skipper who now put on Cooper to bowl in place of Simms. Rana, too, hit out finely, sending the new bowler to the leg boundary. At 155 Tarrant caught Rana off his own delivery (155-10-11) and Deodher carried out his bat for a well-played 52.

Present scores:—

PRESIDENCY INNINGS.

The Presidency began their first innings at 3-45 p.m., Greig and Goldie facing the Hindu attack delivered by Joshi from the northern and Naidu from the southern end. The Presidency made a disastrous start for they had made only 5 when Greig, their best bat, was stumped by Bhutaram off Naidu (5-1-2). Kirkwood joined Goldie, and the Presidency met with another disaster, Goldie skying one of Joshi's deliveries and being finely held by Dalvi in the long field (5-2-2). Remnant joined Kirkwood who soon met with a piece of ill-luck, being given run out, Vithal making a splendid return and hitting the wicket (5-3-0). McCormack was the next man in. His partner Remnant seemed to be in too great a hurry to score. He stepped out of the crease to slash at Joshi, but as the ball was pitched short he stepped back and the ball just touching the edge of the bat went into Naidu's hands in the slips, the score standing at the previous figure (5-4-0). Tarrant joined McCormack and signalled 10 by finely putting Joshi to the leg boundary. Shortly after, Joshi caught McCormack off his own delivery (12-5-0).

Simms became associated with Tarrant who welcomed his colleague with a fine pull to the leg boundary off Joshi. The Sussex amateur replied with a single off Naidu, bringing up 20. He next put the same bowler to the leg boundary and Tarrant with a two brought up 30 on the board. In the next over Simms was caught at wicket by Bhutaram off Joshi (30-6-8). Cooper joined Tarrant and at 42 Chanda Rana relieved Naidu. A little later Cooper was missed in the long slip by Kantak off Rana. Joshi was now replaced by Dalvi, whom Tarrant put to leg for 3 and signalled the half century. Cooper who had all along been feeling uncomfortable with the Hindu attack now succumbed to Dalvi (50-7-2). Bowman, the ninth Presidency man in, was soon sent back, Rana finding his wicket with a well-pitched delivery (53-8-0). Scott next partnered Tarrant. The rate of run-getting which had been tediously slow now got slower still, the score crawling up to 60 with considerable difficulty. Tarrant's contribution at this stage was 40. Shivram was now entrusted with the attack, Scott putting him to leg for 4. 70 followed a little quickly, and shortly after Tarrant reached his half century amid cheering. 80 now went up and shortly after Scott was held at deep square leg by Kantak off Joshi (80-9-9). Hastings was the last man in. The Presidency had made 89 for 9 wickets, when stumps were drawn for the day. The scores:—

DEFENCE PLEA OF COMPANY'S RIGHT.

STORY OF ALLEGED THROTTLING OF COMPLAINANT.

Before the Chief Presidency, Magistrate, at the Esplanade Police Court, Mr. Dulerai V. Desai, Merchant and Commission Agent, charged J. Franklin, a Guard in the G. I. P. Railway, Head Police Constable Vithu Sitaram, Railway Constables Nos. 351, and 168, and Patandin Swrajbali, a watchman, all employed in the G. I. P. Railway with causing hurt, and the first accused Franklin with wrongful confinement. Mr. D. N. Bahadurji, Mr. S. G. Velinker, Mr. M. K. Azad, Mr. C. N. Kanuga and Mr. Mohanlal M. Desai appeared for the complainant; Mr. Bowen of Messrs. Little and Company, Solicitors, defended the accused.

The Magistrate said under section 109 what was intended was that the Railway could reserve accommodation for a definite number of passengers. The Court asked whether the Company could reserve a compartment for a particular class of passengers. What was the penalty for breaking that rule, the Magistrate asked.

Mr. Bowen said the only penalty was under section 109. There might be no penalty, but the Company might still have the right to do so for a certain class of passengers. It was not prohibited by the act.

The Magistrate:—So it means that you have a right to reserve but if anybody enters the compartment he cannot be prosecuted.

Mr. Bowen said that point did not arise in this case. The Guard was acting under the traffic instructions of the Company. He was therefore justified in reserving the carriage; as a servant of the Company he was perfectly justified in reserving the compartment. The Railway was perfectly justified in reserving the compartment because the Railway Act did not prohibit it.

Mr. Cursondas Damodardas cross-examined by Mr. Bowen said they were all seated on the benches on the platform when the train came and he travelled next to the compartment reserved for Anglo-Indians. He did not see or hear anything of what had happened at Ghatkoper. At Boribunder he got out and stood near the compartment next to his, where people were standing. He saw the complainant get out of the window; as soon as he got down the guard caught him by the throat for about a quarter of a minute; he could not say whether the windpipe was squeezed; but from the complainant's face he saw it was tightly caught. One of the police sepoys then held him from the rear side. He could not say whether Dulerai tried to strike the guard. He did not find the mob very excited; they were requesting the guard. He did not see whether Dulerai had an umbrella; the witness had one, and many of the people had them. He saw the ramosi raise the stick and witness raised his hand to ward off the blow; but the blow was not struck. He did not see the ramosi's eye bleeding. The ramosi was the only person flourishing anything.

To the Magistrate:—He had not sent any notice to the Company for compensation. He did not see No. 5 striking anybody or bleeding.

"A RARE SIGHT IN INDIA."

Mr. Bhagwandas L. Khokani cross-examined by Mr. Bowen said he had gone into the question of "reserved" compartments, because the question had been asked in the Legislative Council. He did not think that anybody intended travelling in the compartment to test the legality. The previous day he had seen some friends sitting in the reserved compartment. He had only heard the guard asking them to get down. He had never been locked in; he swore the guard locked the door on that day. He had requested the guard to open the door. There were some ladies in the compartment. The passengers were quite cool; only the crowd made a noise, because they did not like the passengers confined for such a long time; it was a rare sight in India. As soon as the complainant got down the guard went at him and caught him by the front part of the neck and held him for about half a minute He did not see Dulerai strike the guard with an umbrella. He saw No. 5 with a stick which he was flourishing, but he did not see him wounded. The crowd was excited after the policeman had brutally assaulted the complainant. No. 2 took hold of the complainant by the nape of the neck, then by the collar. They brutally dragged the complainant to the chowki; the complainant was not excited he had no time to get excited; he was so much suffocated that he was almost unconscious. All the policemen took part in the dragging of the complainant. It was worse than throttling, that is what the witness thought. There was no attempt to rescue, because the Hindus are very tame. Two men had raised their umbrellas besides the fifth accused, and that was done to protect the complainant from him.

Re-examined by Mr. Velinker the witness said the complainant was so much throttled that he was not quite conscious.

To the Magistrate:—The complainant's brother asked the witness to call Dr. Popat; he did not know that he was the family doctor of the complainant; he called him because the witness knew him; he did not know that there was a doctor nearer. He could not say how the Ramosi got his wound.

Mrs. Mildred Bird examined by Mr. Bowen said she was travelling on the 18th ultimo by the Manmad Express; she had no one else with her; there were two or three other women in the compartment and a missionary lady. At Ghatkoper there was a rush by 10 or 15 men. She could identify some in the Court. She could not say whether they tried to open the door, but there was a great noise. Franklin was standing outside and he asked the passengers to get out, but they defied him. If was the complainant who did it. She did not see the Station Master. She said to the passengers what was the use in making a fuss; there was the board outside stating that the compartment was for Europeans and Eurasians. Then the train started. One man said "Don't talk to the white leper"; it was Jassani who said that. She did not speak to anybody before that. She had not said a word to him. She called him 'a pigger' directly he called her a white faced leper. The missionary lady took the part of the passengers and said they were human beings. There was much noise; they were clapping their hands and shouting. It continued right up to Bombay.

They said they had money and they were not afraid. She did not know what they meant by that. When she arrived at the Victoria Station she saw the guard. They were all shouting. There was a large crowd. One of the women in the compartment got out with a baby; another was fainting. About five or ten minutes after the train had stopped the complainant got out of the window. She did not know anything after that. There was no railway servant in the carriage.

"THEY ARE HUMAN BEIGS."

Cross-examined by Mr. Velinker the witness said the compartment must 'ave been locked, because the people could not get out of it. She did not see who locked it. Ten or fifteen men entered the carriage; they were smoking, making a noise and impertinent remarks, and that was all the discomfort that was caused her. When she showed the complainant the board "reserved for Europeans and Anglo-Indians" he made a remark as to who she was whether Eurasian or European. She was certain the complainant made the remark. She addressed her remark to nobody in particular. "I said" continued the witness "no good making fuss; there is the board outside." She was annoyed at the way they were speaking to the guard. The complainant had his hand out of the window. She was annoyed at this insolent style. She did not know why the hand was put out, but it was very insolent. The guard did not say anything but was quiet. It was very strange that he was quiet. She could not say the smoking annoyed her. They started jabbering and she could not say whether it annoyed her. What really annoyed her was their demeanour towards the guard. The remark that she had to prove whether she was an Anglo-Indian or European annoyed her. The complainant said that and although he did not directly address her, she inferred that he did. The Missionary lady did not take the witness' side; she (Missionary lady) got up and said "they are human beings". She did not think there was anything wrong in getting into the compartment. The witness said they had no right. The Missionary lady did not say anything particular to the witness; she only stood up and said that. The other two ladies who were with her did not take any part, because one of them was too scared. The missionary lady did not apply her remarks in particular to the witness.

"COLLAPSE" OF THE MISSIONARY LADY.

The witness told the missionary lady that "she should be ashamed to stand up for Indians in preference to a European." She collapsed after that. She stopped speaking after that. She did not know what happened at Bori Bunder. A complaint was filed on behalf of the witness before the Honorary Magistrates by the Railway Police on the 20th August. She made a complaint to Baldwin the Police officer. She was not surprised to hear that her complaint was about obstruction.

She was briefly re-examined by Mr. Bowen.

Mr. Vishwanath Waman, station master at Ghatkoper, said he knew the complainant as a passenger. He saw the complainant on the 18th seated in the European and Eurasian compartment. He was sent for and the guard asked him why he had allowed them to go inside. The witness told the guard that he could not get them out, but that he would take their names and the guard could do the same. The brakesman locked the door. There were no railway hamals at Ghatkoper; he did not see anyone being put inside. There was no necessity to go into this compartment. Some men were travelling on the previous day, but no complaint was made to him.

To Mr. Velinker:—He saw about 8 or 9 men. There was noise. They were saying "why is the train detained, you can take our names." The guard was near. The complainant was seated on the bench and he could see through the window; he was not standing. He did not see anybody put out his hand at the guard. They gave the names without any trouble. They would not come out. After the train started he wired to Boribunder "Guard of 35 requires you on platform for passengers occupy European compartment." The guard did not take down the names.

E. A. Samuel ticket collector at Ghatkoper examined by Mr. Bowen said when he saw a crowd he went up to the compartment; the brakesman was there; the passengers asked the porter to open the compartment, but as there were Europeans he did not. The passengers then compelled the porter to open the compartment; he did not know which of the passengers did it. The passengers offered to give their names. Everyone was offering his name, and the complainant was among them. The guard asked twice or thrice to the passengers to get out. Messrs. Hirachand, Dulerai and Jassani were sitting in the European compartment since the 1st August, and they always offered their names. There was plenty of room in the Manmad Express. He did not see any hamal put into the compartment.

To the Magistrate:—The guard gave the order to the brakesman to lock the compartment which he did. He did not see anybody shaking his fist at the guard, or putting out his hand. The guard was saying "take them out" but the station master asked him to take legal action against them at Bori Bunder. The station master then wired for assistance to Bori Bunder. The station master had already reported the matter to his superiors regarding the passengers travelling in this compartment.

To the Magistrate:—The practice is to lock as many compartments as possible. It was not a special case that day that they locked this compartment. Only Manmad Express is locked because it goes right through to Boribunder.

The case was adjourned to Saturday.

GERMAN COTTON RESERVES EXHAUSTED.

The Geneva correspondent of the "Daily Express" says the "Gazette de Lausanne," learns from a reliable German source that the cotton reserves in Germany are now completely exhausted. This fact explains the recent German efforts to secure the 14,000 bales now stored in Switzerland. It appears that in July 1914, the German cotton reserves at Hamburg and Bremen aggregated 349,000 bales. It is now announced that there are only 1,000 bales altogether. Austria is in much the same plight.

A band will perform at intervals each day and Refreshments will be provided to suit all classes and all purses.

Six ways in which You can help.

ONE By sending anything and everything you can to the Great War Sale at once. We do not ask for rubbish, at the same time nothing is too trifling, nothing too valuable. There will be a place for everything.

When you are looking for something to send, do not say "That is not worth sending." It is. And do not say "That is too valuable to send." It isn't. The Committee would just as soon receive a Motor Car as a reel of cotton.

TWO By collecting goods from your friends or inducing them to interest themselves in the sale by sending articles.

THREE In the very unlikely event of not being able to assist with articles, to send a gift of money to the Committee. Our present object is not to appeal for subscriptions, but we need them all the same and they will be appreciated.

FOUR By attending the Great Sale and buying.

FIVE By taking tickets in the Monster Lucky Bag, and prevailing upon your friends to do likewise.

SIX By going to the Fete in Elphinstone Circle Garden and patronizing the various side shows provided.

ALL HELP IS HELP FOR OUR MEN AT THE FRONT AND FOR OUR WOUNDED IN HOSPITAL. WHATEVER YOU DO, YOU WILL HAVE THE SATISFACTION OF KNOWING THAT YOU ARE HELPING THOSE WHO ARE FIGHTING FOR YOU.
